

Vote in Style hosts free online advertising for independent fashion designers

September 26th, 2007 - Vote in Style announces free online advertising space for independent fashion designers to promote up-and-coming artists. Free ad space will be hosted through 2007. Indie fashion designers who sign up will also be considered for a new "featured designers" section on voteinstyle.com.

Vote in Style aims to strengthen the bond between consumers and designers. Through showcasing independent designs, Vote in Style will in turn give consumers additional creative fashion options.

"Creative individuals deserve to be seen and heard. This promotion is our way of giving back to the community that we are so passionate about," says Ann Nguyen, Vote in Style co-founder.

"Vote in Style is 'freedom of fashion'. We created this platform in order to benefit fashionistas, designers, artists and consumers alike," says Noel Ruiz, Vote in Style co-founder.

Independent fashion designers interested in free ad space should apply via voteinstyle.com. Other types of independent artists contributing to the fashion community will also be considered.

About Vote in Style

Vote in Style is a fashion voting site, created to promote community-based decisions on what's in and out of style. Vote in Style facilitates fashion discussions and provides a platform for the community to showcase and determine trends.

Contact

Noel Ruiz
noel@voteinstyle.com
<http://www.voteinstyle.com/>
Long Beach, CA
USA

###